Creating Healthier Lives™

Stress – The Issue

- Everyday stress is inevitable in modern life
  - Especially in the light of current economic & social conditions
- It is the biggest health concern for people in the US
- Stress triggers the release of hormones – adrenalin & cortisol
- Everyday stress and high cortisol levels can affect long term health

Stress – Incidence

- 80 million people
  - 49% of all women and 34% of all men
  - 49% of people 18-49 years of age frequently experience stress in their daily lives, vs. just 30% over age 50
  - 3 of 5 women say stress is the #1 issue in their lives
- 75% of Americans describe their jobs as stressful – about 20% as super-stressful
- Working women with children report the greatest stress, 59% of women between 18-49 years
- 68% of Americans are stressed by the economy & 48% are stressed due to security concerns
- Stress accounts for 75-90% of all doctor visits, 35% of Americans take supplements for everyday stress

Above info based on 1999 & 2001 Gallup polls, CDC estimates, and other surveys

Market Potential

- Total number of adults experiencing stress is estimated to increase by about 12.4% from 1998 to 2010 – Gallup 1999
- 35% of people have tried supplementation for everyday stress
- 39% of those experiencing everyday stress say that they are interested in trying something new to help relieve stress – Gallup 1999

FDA Advisory Issued (March 25, 2002)

FDA ADVISED CONSUMERS AGAINST THE USE OF KAVA BECAUSE OF POTENTIAL RISK OF SEVERE LIVER DAMAGE

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is advising consumers of the potential risk of severe liver injury associated with the use of kava-containing dietary supplements. Supplements containing the herbal ingredient kava are promoted for relaxation (e.g., to relieve stress, anxiety, and tension), sleeplessness, menopausal symptoms and other uses. FDA has not made a determination about the ability of kava dietary supplements to provide such benefits. Although liver damage appears to be rare, FDA believes consumers should be informed of this potential risk.

Users' Experiences With Stress Relief Complex*

This last week was very stressful and busy for me, and I had little time to pay attention to myself. While I was taking the Stress Relief Complex, however, I noticed that I seemed to worry less about my everyday stressful situations than I usually do.* It enabled me to handle the occasional stress much more easily.*

-A. Savukyniene (Port Washington NY)

After a week of taking Shaklee's Stress Relief Complex, I felt much calmer than usual when handling some unusually stressful situations*: my husband had a sudden serious health problem, taxes were due, we had a swarm of bees invade our house, and I performed in a choir musical last weekend. The thing I noticed most during this period of extra stress was the ability to cope with it all much more effectively than I usually would.*

- N. Burtch (Phoenix, AZ)

I did find that, after taking Stress Relief Complex, I experienced less tension and that I was able to accomplish more than usual.* Sometimes I put myself under so much pressure that I feel overwhelmed - but not with Stress Relief Complex*! I really felt that I could manage the everyday pressures better.*
